My Aunty Erin is an author. She has written 12 books. Her first book was called the Poison tree. Maybe because she is an author that is why I love extended writing. She plays with me and she is kind.

Super Six Nations- who will be crowned the winner?

Super Six Nations! Who will be crowned the winner?

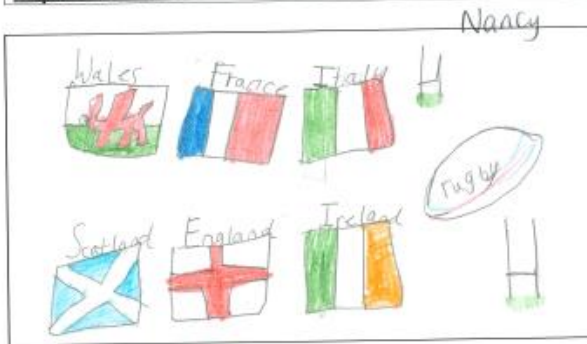

The Six Nations Championship is a men's rugby union competition. There are six teams that compete England, France, Ireland, Italy, Scotland and Wales. It is held in many different venues from each of the countries playing. You can watch the games on the BBC and ITV in the UK. ~~Now~~ ~~Now~~ ~~Now~~ Lets go to who I think is going to win. I think Ireland will win because they also won last year's championship.

That means they must be a really good team. And they have won almost all of their match matches. People call them the best team. But, I also want England to win as they are my favourite team.

Super Six Nations! Who will be crowned the winner?

The Super Six Nations is a rugby competition made up of six different teams. They are nations and countries in Europe. There are three teams from the United Kingdom who are England, Wales and Scotland. The other three teams are from Ireland, France and Italy. The competition involves all the teams playing each other once. The winner scores four points if they win, two points if they draw and zero

The team at the end with the most points will be the winner! Ireland won the last six nations competition so they are the champions for now. The competition is not held in just one country. The teams will travel to different venues to play their matches. All the action will kick off at the start of February with France playing Ireland and the final day of matches will be on the Saturday 16th March where the winners will be decided. Ireland have a very strong team and won all their games in the competition so far. I think they will be the winners again.

Super Six Nations! Who will be crowned the winner?

I think IRELAND will win the 6 nations because they have won all of their games so far and have been playing really well. They have been trying their best in the scrum and are good at kicks and throws. They run very fast and don't hurt themselves a lot. My daddy thinks they will win and he is Welsh.

Super Six Nations! Who will be crowned the winner?

Ireland won the 2024 Six Nations by beating Scotland in their final game. They did not win the Grand Slam as England beat them in a thriller at Twickenham.

Super Six Nations! Who will be crowned the winner?

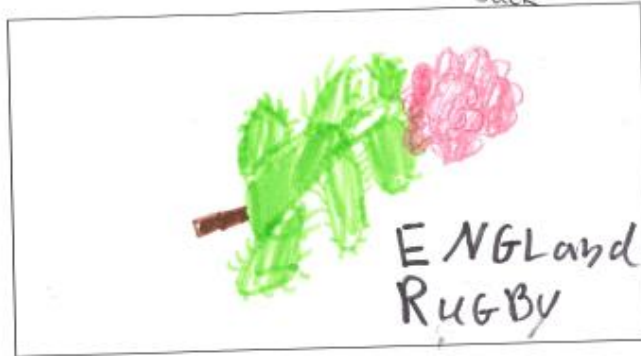

'Who will be crowned the winner?' was the question everyone was asking on super saturday. Ireland had only lost one game so just needed to beat Scotland to win the six Nations trophy. Which they did with the final score of 17-13. France then came second and England third. This is the second year in a row Ireland have won the six Nations. Well done to all the teams on a great tournament.

After England's great victory on Saturday, England have a great chance for winning the Six Nations Cup! Oh Saturday England came from behind and they won from a drop kick against the favourites Ireland. Next Saturday is BIG! Next Saturday Ireland vs Scotland and England have to save France, England need Ireland to lose and then they can take four points so they can win. England are going to be in good spirits because of their last win. Scotland will be keen to win against Ireland because Scotland lost to Italy. Here's to a great night in Paris for England next Saturday!

Swing low sweet chariots!
